MELROSE HIGH SCHOOL

MELROSE, MASSACHUSETTS

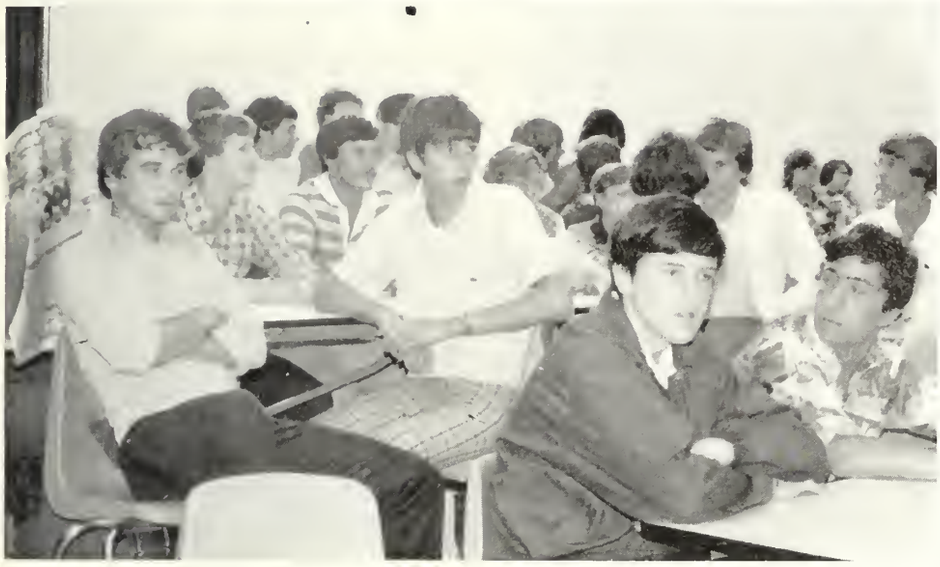
Turn the page, look inside, share our good times, a laugh, a smile, and remember...

beginning

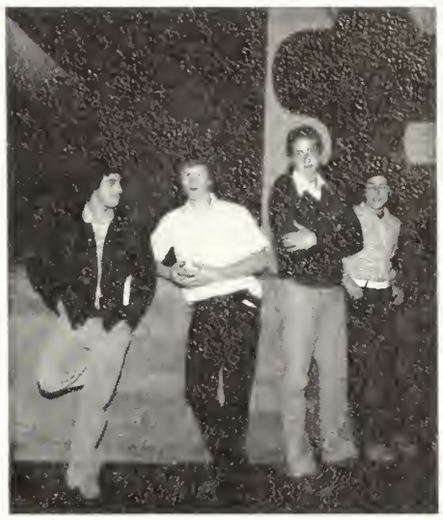
For the last six consecutive years or 1,080 mornings, we have rolled out of bed and wandered from all directions to this community called Melrose High School. You may not realize it, but we have lived through quite a lot collectively and individually. You may be astonished by the realization that together we have half-listened to 7,560 minutes of morning announcements; 18,760 bells and buzzers; 51,000 minutes of English; and a total of 368,400 minutes of school—And what have we gained from this experience? Some gained a few pounds, some grew a few inches, others received "Gasid Indigestion" and a few of us developed "Excederin Headaches 3,143 - 7,872." But we have all become, mainly with each other, adults—people ready to face the world.

We began as kids about twelve years old, set loose in the Junior High Jungle. Mass confusion prevailed through our first few weeks as we asked such abstractions as "What day is this?" What block is this?" "WHAT IS A BLOCK?" and "Who do I give my elevator ticket to?" Yet, astoundingly enough, things got progressively more chaotic. A new high school, another hour and a half of classes, and BACON BURGERS were added to our high school career.

In all, we have been through sizzling summers without air-conditioning...



.....And winters of stuffy, crowded rooms.



But somehow we always found a way to laugh, to make it bearable.

And through the laughter, we shared growing up, and growing away.

Ourselves

We have come from different directions and have been thrown together only because we live within the boundaries of the same city. Though at first immaturity and self-consciousness prevented us from being different from the clusters of freshmen who trudged to school everyday at noon, we have emerged true individuals--each with something special to offer the Melrose High community.

Though at first we conformed, now we have the confidence to be ourselves.

We are together, and yet apart.

I am I,
A person with my own
standings,
With my own beliefs, my own personality.
A part of the school, a part of my friends
Yet separate and unique, in my own way.
I am what I am, that is all I can ever be.

Our interests as well as our personalities, determine our academic goals.

There are, of course, memories of our high school years that we would all care to forget. For example, the many weekends we swore we would spend catching up on all the homework we had put off the week before, instead staying up until 1:00 a.m. Monday morning trying to finish it. And this was only to be surpassed by the "Term Paper Syndrome" which occurred in almost epidemic proportions in June, when almost all of the potential "scholars" spent their free time on the beach. The victims of this dreaded disease often found themselves surrounded by incomprehensible books in some stuffy library, toiling away at footnotes, parenthetical references, and bibliographies. An alert listener in the library would hear the students grumble such questions as "What is a parenthetical reference?", "Why did I choose this topic?", and the ever famous, "Why am I here?" As if this was not enough, there was still another dreaded academic disease that struck the class of '77. This disease, scientifically referred to as "Procrastination Lackadiasical Dilemma," is better known as "Senioritis". The symptoms were easily recognized by constant drowsiness, an inability to carry books home, a deep hatred for libraries, and a noticeable drop in grades. The cure was simple: get to bed at nine o'clock every evening, do homework every afternoon, and finally, cut down on the number of nights out.

The problem was no one would take the cure, the disease was much too fun!

IT'S A NOR'EASTER

This year marked the return of the traditional New England winter. A series of blizzards caused personal agony and brought life in Melrose, as well as in the rest of the country, to a stand still. A shortage of energy and patience arose. "Cabin Fever" was an ailment of all high school students as they received an extra week of vacation with no way to get out and enjoy it. The sub-zero temperatures forced even winter frolic in the snow out of the question. Man, so proud of his technological advances, has been proven vulnerable to the ever changing New England weather. Black outs, school cancellations, and the outrageously deplorable conditions of Melrose streets were all factors contributing to the winter that millions of Melrose students will be telling their grandchildren about.

To develop an appreciation of the dramatic arts through ''doing'' was the goal of the 76-77 Melrose High Drama Club. Under the direction of Ms. May and the leadership of President Patti Wood, Vice President Karen Styles, Secretary Tricia Vinchesi, and Treasurer Marianne Savage, the drama club staged a variety of productions and activities. Hours of hard work and preparation for drama competitions as well as the spring production of Lizzy Borden of Fall River made up the core of the club's activities. Hard work was not the only diet, however. A first year pot luck supper followed by original skits performed by club members rounded out the year's activities. To concentrate, to observe, to create was the motto, the goal, and the spirit which brought it all together for the '77 drama club.

World War II Club

This first year was a hectic one for the World War II Club. Club officers were faced with a rather unusual problem, one that other clubs would have welcomed; namely, the over-zealousness and enthusiasm of over 300 club members, many of whom could not make the club picture. Highlights of the year included re-enactments of the battles of Iwo Jima and Midway, held at the Knoll and Ell Pond respectively. Another major feat of the club was the sinking of the Argo Merchant in an effort to emphasize the hazards the merchant marine faced in WW II. The heavy snow that cancelled a week of school postponed WW II Club plans to hold a full-scale re-enactment of the Normandy invasion.

The chess team enjoyed a successful year, participating in numerous interscholastic tournaments, as well as frequent intramural events. Included in their schedule were meets against Woburn, Somerville, Swampscott, and Salem. Under the leadership of Mr. Morrow, the team members acquired the skill and concentration needed in this match of wits. The team will fondly remember their ''honorary member'' and ''beating'' Mr. Morrow.

Class Officers play an important part in the organization of school activities. These interested students take on the responsibility of creating social activities to make high school years more memorable. Planning dances, proms, and fund raising events, class officers are the working wheels of high school classes. The Student-Faculty Basketball Games, Senior and Junior Proms, and the Winter Ball are all annual events organized by class officers.

A special thanks must be given to faculty advisors, for without their interest, few of these activities would be possible. Class advisors include Ms. Osepchuck and Mr. Reilly, Senior Class; Mr. Shaughnessy, Junior Class and Sophomore Class, Ms. Moulaison and Mr. Capone.

The Student Congress is a representative group of a cross section of the student population. Under the chairmanship of Dan Hughes, Congress is working towards improving privileges and conditions of Melrose High Students. Also, a strong attempt to loosen rules and regulations is made by granting new responsibilities to the students. Beside sponsoring an assembly for all the students, a good effort has been made to create an activity period for all the students to enjoy. On the whole, Student Congress is a concerned group of individuals initiating more interest in school.

DEBATE

Special Thanks and All our Love to Coach Freeman Frank.

Led by officers Kirk Eveleth, Donna Melanson, Reay Forsyth and Barbara Duffy, the '76-'77 Debate Team enjoyed a highly successful year. Winning tournaments included M.C., Suffolk and Dartmouth -- and the good times were many -- "where are the noices?"...no flows..."Of course I want to be home for Christmas"..."Mind if I smoke?"..."Rob left her clothes in the girls room -- again?"... The cave..."Tracy and who are in the living room?"...Districts '76..."We got lost"... "and there was Kivel"...country roads..."Well, I thought I put the evidence in the car"...snow banks..."How many sisters do you have?"... "What'a they run?"...and, of course, the many, many friends.

Members of the Melrose High Business Club are students who are interested in exploring the many opportunities which are currently available in the business world. Members sponsor educational, social, and money making activities both in and out of school. Field trips are also an important part of the club's activities, as they provide valuable opportunities to discuss the latest business trends and career opportunities with those presently employed in this field.

The Distributive Education Club consists of those who work with service and merchandise training. D.E.C.A. works in conjunction with the Cooperative Education Board, whose main emphasis is working on service and distribution. The school store is an important part of the club's activities because it enables them to experience first hand, the goings on of the business world.

This year the National Honor Society is no longer a name but an active organization determined to improve the community as a whole. They have established a tutoring program for the junior and senior high schools, and are sponsoring the Ms. Knorr Scholarship Fund. The Club's future plans include sponsoring a career day to help indecisive students acknowledge career opportunities. Although faced with many problems, the National Honor Society believes that they have set the groundwork for future academically superior students to provide beneficial services.

Peter Hiedkamp (Literary Editor), Lawrence Savage (Editor-in-Chief), Peter Borghetti (Sports Editor).

The Imprint has changed this year in a very significant way. Instead of being strictly a chronicle of school news, they have placed more of an emphasis on the community of Melrose, and how MHS contributes to the city's atmosphere. The staff has been trying to show the students that they have had some influence in making Melrose what it is today. They have not lost sight of the fact that the Imprint has been a part of MHS for over forty years and are trying to continue this tradition by keeping abreast of the activities within the school.

A NEW IMPRINT

BY WING,

BY

Marion Andrews, Ron Diamond, Mr. Dodge, Shelly Barber, Phil Batton, Wayne Collerly.

The '77 Aviation Club was dedicated to the active investigation of all aspects of aviation and aeronautics. The organization of the modern airport, the functions of complex flight controls, as well as introductions to sky diving and hang gliding were all explored by this year's club. Field trips and lectures were important supplements to weekly meetings. Trips to Hand Passer Laboratory in Pease Air Force base, as well as a lecture on parachuting, were enjoyed by all.

Wednesday afternoons found the members of the auto club busy at work in the "pit", taking apart and reconstructing auto engines and bodies. The goal was simply to learn all one could about the mechanics of the auto. There was a little money making in the air. Also from time to time old cars were fixed up and sold, building up the club treasury a bit. This year's club started things rolling for the eventual construction of a Melrose High car to be used for drag racing. Although they were small in number, the auto club grease monkeys were big in talent, customers of the auto shop are not frequent customers of the A.A.A.! (Or cars handled by the auto shop are not often handled by the tow truck!)

The newly organized posee, under the direction of John (Ride 'em Cowboy) Studley, was the first club of its kind. Mr. Studley, who was once quoted as saying "a horse, a horse, My kingdom for a horse!", brought the posse out to the ranch and gave Melrose High students a real taste of the West. The posse, depicted as smiling faces and blazing saddles, was a perceptive group and learned to avoid tricky situations by appreciating the anatomy of a horse. So, as they ride into the sunset, all that remains is a cloud of dust, the future is bright for the Equestrian Club.

BIOLOGY AND CHEMISTRY CLUBS

Whether the chemists have solutions or the biology scholars know organic composition, it is certain that they do know something. Students who enjoy the sciences find the Chemistry and Biology clubs interesting and exciting organizations in which they may expand their scientific knowledge. Interested members of the Biology club attend FOCUS Outdoors, an annual science seminar at Mt. Holyoke College, while members of the Chemistry club are selling bumper stickers to fund future field trips. The stickers, such as Honk if You Passed P-Chem., can only be fully appreciated by those familiar with the sciences. "Do you have Avagadro's number?"

Students of Melrose High School worked with representatives of the Melrose Red Cross Chapter to schedule, advertise and arrange blood donations. Twice a year under the direction of Mr. Hodgkins and Mr. Hildreth these students gave up a weekend to set up a bloodmobile in the Junior High School Gym.

PAL CLUB

The Pal Club is a social welfare organization. Members act as "big brothers or big sisters" towards children from age 5-12 who have emotional or family problems. The club members offered friendship, compassion, and understanding to underprivileged children. Currently being directed by Mr. Hurley and Mr. Simonds, the Pal Club sponsors outings and gives time to underprivileged children.

The Log Staff, with its new office that doubles as Grand Central Station, is a persevering group of individuals. Amid the shuffle of papers and lost, wandering souls is true journalistic ability. The forlorn glances towards the clock as deadline time arrives, and home remaining a memory of yesterday, are just a few experiences a dedicated Log member encounters. But the final rewards, the Chinese food, the bad jokes and the elimination of that telephone call from "Our Fearless Leader" are said to be the results of our time and devotion to this literary organization. The Ping Pong Tournament, the Christmas Party, International Club, the Students versus Teachers Basketball Games, Powder Puff, Honor Society Quiz Bowl, Volleyball, Girls Soccer, and the Intramurals are just a few of the activities administered by the invincible team of Hodgkins and Carrabis. Having just one free period, this pair has successfully assisted teachers with special activities and field trips and has included over fifty percent of the student body in extracurricular activities. These activities have given students excuses to remain in school and take advantage of the facilities offered. Also the problem of financing this group of diverse activities was breached with their mediation. Yet, most important is the fact that they have proven that school can be an enjoyable experience.

The German Club enjoyed a unique visit by "Besuchern" from Hamburg, Germany through the German-American Partnership Exchange Program. This was the second phase of the program following a trip to Hamburg by M.H.S. students last April. Our foreign friends participated in many field trips including those to the State House, the North Shore, and Boston Harbor. This exchange is hopefully the first of many such programs to strengthen international relations and involve students in cultural experiences.

The Italian Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Nuzzo, has participated in many worthwhile and enjoyable activities. They reveled in delicious Italian cuisine at Augustine's and sang their way into the hearts of the city's Senior Citizens with their rendition of Italian Christmas Carols. An Italian Film Festival at Boston College is a primary highlight of this school year. Beyond this is the exciting tour through Italy in April. Learning and experiencing all aspects of Italian culture was the objective of this endeavor. President Lorna D'Amico predicts even more fascinating events for the remainder of the year.

To expand their knowledge of the language, customs and peoples of the Hispanic world is the goal of this year's Spanish Club. Both long and short term projects were planned and carried out under the direction of Mr. Riccio, Club Advisor. New members were welcomed at a Spanish foods dinner given in their honor. The annual International Christmas Party, hosted this year by the Spanish Club, was another popular activity. Plans for bigger and better things were also on this year's agenda. President Trisha McMahon began the groundwork for a student exchange program which will be inaugurated next year. A trip to Spain or Mexico is also on the drawing board.

GLEE CLUB

"Do It On Loo"

This year's glee club has had a fantastic year, full of wonderful memories..."Mr. Mess"...Northeast District try-outs; vespers and spring concerts; the bus rides; Happy Birthdays at the Heritage House; Picnic at Nancy's; WEZE 1260; "People, please be quiet, O.K., I'll wait"..."Oh darn, not the Junior High again?"..."Do we have to wear the robes for the picture?"; "We need men!"; "Who has folder no. 38?"; "You must watch!"; "Time for Patti's solos..."; "Look into my eyes!"; "It's dead, more feeling"; "What lyrics?"..."Put the T's on the end, TTtttt."..."You're flat"..."Do it on loo." For all we know, we've only just begun on the bridge over troubled water with AMAZING grace. Send in the clowns (enter Mr. Messina), thus ends another year in glee club.

Under the direction of Mr. Theodore K. Leutz, the Melrose High Orchestra has had a very successful season this year. Studying a diversified repertoire and keeping numerous concert engagements has kept the orchestra busy throughout the year.

Exemplifying the professional style of the orchestra were senior Roy Rudolph, Neil Schultes, and James Henderson. They were selected to play with the Massachusetts Northeast District, M.E.A. orchestra. Roy Rudolph and James Henderson were also picked for the Massachusetts All-State Orchestra. The recognition of their talent is a tribute to a fine orchestra and a very great honor for Melrose.

ORCHESTRA

Pro-Style

The Melrose High School Band under the leadership of Joyce Pelrine and Christopher Atwood had an extremely wonderful season. Their events included ten pre-game and half time performances at the football games, Pep rallies, Parades, The Playathon, The March-a-thon, the Spring and Pops Concerts, and Graduation...

The RAA is an athletic organization concerned with getting students involved in athletic activities. Originally organized for girls, the Raiders Athletic Association expanded to include male counterparts. The square dance, sponsored by the RAA, was an excellent example of the enthusiasm created by sport playing persons to involve non-sport playing persons in fun and exciting activities. Other activities sponsored were the intramural sports program, the skating party and successful fund raising events for the Student Activity Fund.

TUMBLERS

Led by Co-Captains, Donna Behrle and Jean Ricciardelli, the Tumblers continued to be important contributors to the spirit and festivities of M.H.S. football games. The '76 season began with summer practices 3 or 4 times weekly to learn new formations, stunts and to perfect the routines which would be performed throughout the season. The work continued with weekly practices during the fall months. However this season was not all work, and practice -- after the memories of late night practices have dimmed, the tumblers will remember '76 as the season of new uniforms, pre-game brunches and pre-game rallies, pit A performances, many long laughs and lasting good times.

Each Fall, senior girls march out on the Melrose High Athletic Field to prove to an amazed crowd that football is not for boys only. This year was not an exception. In a battle between the Columbian Reds and the White Punks, the final victors proved to be the White Punks. The game was close and the referees admitted that calling the plays was a difficult task. Both teams lost valuable players due to injuries, but the participants who suffered the most were the cheerleaders who were not used to wearing short skirts in such chilly weather.

Gym classes at Melrose High are not ordinary gym classes where boys and girls are afraid to see each other in their gym shorts. Gym is now interest oriented. Anyone can lift weights, practice yoga, or shoot arrows. As a result, gym classes are reflections of different people doing their own thing. Self-expression through athletics is another form of individuality.

A solid effort by the Red Raiders this year yielded a very satisfying 5-4-1 record and fourth place in the Middlesex League. Led By Captain Peter Nolan, the Raiders were determined from the outset to make it a good season for the returning Coach Hoague.

Despite a string of injuries, the Raiders gave each game all they had. Jack Muse was named to the All League Team as a Utilityman. Other contributing seniors are Joe Amoroso, Fred Chuive, Jack Connolly, Kris Kelley and Steve Williams.

YOU'VE GOT TO WANT IT . . .

With injuries to many players, (at one point, all the starting fullbacks were out) the soccer team just could not get on top this year. At no time, however, did they give up, as is indicated by the large amount of ties and one goal game. Co-Captain Scott Colborne made All-League while Steve Denning and Steve Matteucci received honorable mention. Other contributing seniors were John Alfano, Peter Borghetti, Steve Bourgeois, Eric Cefalo, Tom Glynn, Al Gregorio, Ken Griffin, Richard Hand, Peter Hanson, Bob McCaughey (Co-Captain), David Rosenzweig, Larry Savage, Charlie Scimone, John Stamatopoulos, Gene Switzer, and Glenn Wells...''You've got to want it, gentlemen''...''Hey, Borgha, how's your head?''...Woburn's invisible goal...1-0 to Belmont... The 1976 Field Hockey Team enjoyed a very successful season, due in part to the hard work everyone put out, the togetherness of the team and the leadership of Coach Johnson and Coach Fro. Stressing the importance of spirit and pride, the coaches led M.H.S. to one of the finest seasons ever..."With You". The team started 14 games with new kilts and turtlenecks, lucky green sweats, a necklace, Sophie and a huddle with hands on the ground. Although it missed qualifying for the state tournament by one half of a point, 31 corners, the team did beat Burlington and Wakefield.

The Cross Country Team had another winning season this year. Led by Co-Captains Billy DeYoung and Carl Maccario, the Melrose runners were the most respected team in the League. The loss of Rick Pierce with a broken foot early in the season hindered the performance this year.

Other contributing seniors were Joe Corbett, Mark Hemenway, Grey Madigon, Tom Prendergast, and Bob Shea ...''Did he say TWO Spot Ponds?!''...Billy Goat-3, Woburn-0 ...Hill courses...''Lean into it''...Winchester Woods...''You gotta have desire.''...Banquet at Lexington.

Kenny Griffin and John Ardizzoni prepare for the gun signalling the start of the 600. The Melrose pair finish second and third respectively.

The Melrose High School Winter Track team boasted a string of personal accomplishments during the 76-77 season. In the Woburn meet, for example, Mark Hemenway achieved his first victory in the 2-mile while co-captain Bob Shea threw a career long shot put of 42'7 ½''. The following week in Burlington, Billy DeYoung posted a 10:24 in the 2-mile and Carl Maccario a 2:27 on the 1000 yard run to lead the Raiders to a solid 38-47 victory. Overcoming such set backs as bad weather, and injuries to valuable teammates Tom Plouffe, Carl Maccario, and co-captain Rick Pierce, the trackmen exhibited their true desire and spirit. A victory over traditional rival Wakefield ended the season on an optimistic note. Other contributing seniors were Joe Corbett, Steve Eddy, Greg Madison, Steve Bourgeois and Charlie Kelliher.

The 1976-77 season brought the MHS Grapplers back to the top. Led by captain Steve (Gumper) Williams, who was undefeated through the regular season, the wrestlers ended the season in a three way tie for the Middlesex League title with Wakefield and Reading. Highlighting the season was a thrilling one-point victory over Reading. In this meet, Williams gave the Raiders a four point lead with a 5-0 win over a 187 pound foe, who had previously defeated him in the Lowell Tournament. Dave Leonard clinched the match by preventing himself from being pinned while on his back the last 30 seconds of this unlimited weight contest. Other contributing seniors on Frank Ball's team were Bob Travis, Glen Wells and Ken Winsor. Several promising underclassmen including Greg Kelley, Richie Corrado, Jim Delani, Dennis Lynch and Richie Pitari should help keep the MHS Grapplers on top.

Although girls had been important members of the Melrose "boys" swim teams for the past several years, 1976 marked the first year of a separate and independent girl's team which competed in an all female league. The team performed admirably under the direction of coach Dick Whitworth. The first year record was very respectable. Young spirit, hard work, promise for the future, as well as the set backs of inexperience and youth all surfaced during this opening season.

Improvement was also a key word. Sue Butler, Kim Niquist, Linda Glazier, and Pam Downey all showed signs of personal improvement. Daily practices to trim seconds off of the relay and to smooth out those choppy backstrokes paid off both for the team and for the individuals. Six girls, including senior Capt. Joanne Davidson, earned spots in state and regional post season tournament competition. Returning members are looking forward to an expanded schedule for their second year of competition.

Contributing seniors were Joanne Davidson, Capt., Barbara Dennen, Pam Downey, Linda Glazier, and Pat Penney . . . The team would like to announce the following awards and memorabile: Cheering award, Sony Johnson; Late Bus award, Pat Penney; Racing Start award, Linda Glazier . . . "Victory-Water" . . . "Three cheers for..." . . . "Peaches and Cream".

A hard-working, well-trained Boy's Swim Team put together another outstanding season under the coaching of Bob Grant. This was a team of tremendous spirit and ability, as shown by a great come-from-behind victory over a tough Winchester team. Todd Burne won the 50 yard free style; the divers (C. Palmer, P. Borghetti, and M. McManus) took 1-2-3; and Ed Kodzis won the 100 yard butterfly to set up the meet deciding final relay. In a close race the foursome of J. Driscoll, P. Winslow, T. Burne and E. Kodzis won the relay, and thus the meet 43-40. The outcome of the Jan. 31 meet against Lexington was the deciding factor for the Middlesex League title. Both teams went into the meet tied for first with identical records.

Front Row: Coach Bob Grant, P. Winslow, P. Browinski, B. DeConinck, T. Burne, J. Driscoll, P. Borghetti, Assistant Coach Dick Whitworth. Second Row: N. Shultes, B. Nolan, R. Collins, D. When the water had settled, however, the Melrose boys had been edged out by a mere 4 points in one of the most exciting meets in recent memory. Due to their great performances throughout the season Juniors Ed Kodzis and Evan Shultes and Senior Todd Burne were named All-League.

Fine performances were also turned in by Captain Bob DeConinck and Tom Glynn in the 100 yard breast stroke... "Look, in the water. It's a fish! It's a turtle! No, it's Cap'n. Bob!...Ladies Man Award —Peter Borghetti . . . "It's an official record for Jack Driscoll in the 202 yard freestyle!!"

SLICING

With just 18 seconds left in the final period against Watertown, Co-Captain Ricky Wilson broke over the blue line to tie the game 4-4. Plays like these continued throughout the season to produce another outstanding team. Hard work and discipline from the pre-season and throughout the year has kept this year's team in top form, as shown by the 4-2 victory over League powerhouse Stoneham.

Defense has been one of Melrose's strong points this year, with consistently good plays by goalie Jimmy Boyden and defensemen Scott Colborne and Rick DellaPasqua. Another strong point has been the considerable contributions of the team's underclassmen. In the first Woburn game sophomore Rusty Runge scored the hat trick, getting the Raiders first three goals. Another sophomore, Ed Garden, scored the winning goal in the 4-3 victory over the Tanners. The spirit and dedication of the team's players, including seniors Tom Brussard, Larry Capuano, Skootchie Gregorio, Bob McCaughey and Jack Muse, formed the nucleus of the team's success.

Led by Captain Donna Behrle, the only senior on the squad, the MHS Gymnastics team tallied a 5 and 5 record. Concentration and steady performances from the squad led to the season's high score of 82 points. The all around Mary Beth Stahley broke many personal and team records throughout the year. Although the season posed many disappointing meets the squad produced many solid competitors. With the young team returning next year the Melrose High Gymnastics team has a bright future.

Putting

The building years are finally over! The combination of outstanding dedication of two coaches "Jan" Johnson and Cindy "Fro" Casey and the dynamic athletic ability of Deb "Rookie" McGovern were the factors creating this year's successful record. The varsity as well as the increasingly promising junior varsity established the harmony necessary to capture key games. Close victories over Belmont (37-34), Winchester (42-44) and Burlington (47-45) as well as a 51-22 romp over our traditional Wakefield rival, showed the strength and stamina these girls had developed. Contributions from Lisa "Checkers" Ceccerini and All Star Captain, Rookie McGovern, spurred the initiative needed to bring the scoring back! Communication, motion, pressure, team work, confusion and hustle.

An 8-10 record! "Be tough Pat"; "Keep Hustling McGee"; "Your Foul, Brownie"; "Give the ball to Check"; "Hang up the jokes Nance"; "Nice shot Louza"; "Jenkins is taking the jump"; "Checkers is open"; "Ronnie's on tonight, Rook"; "Does your chewing gum..."; WE ARE GOOD.

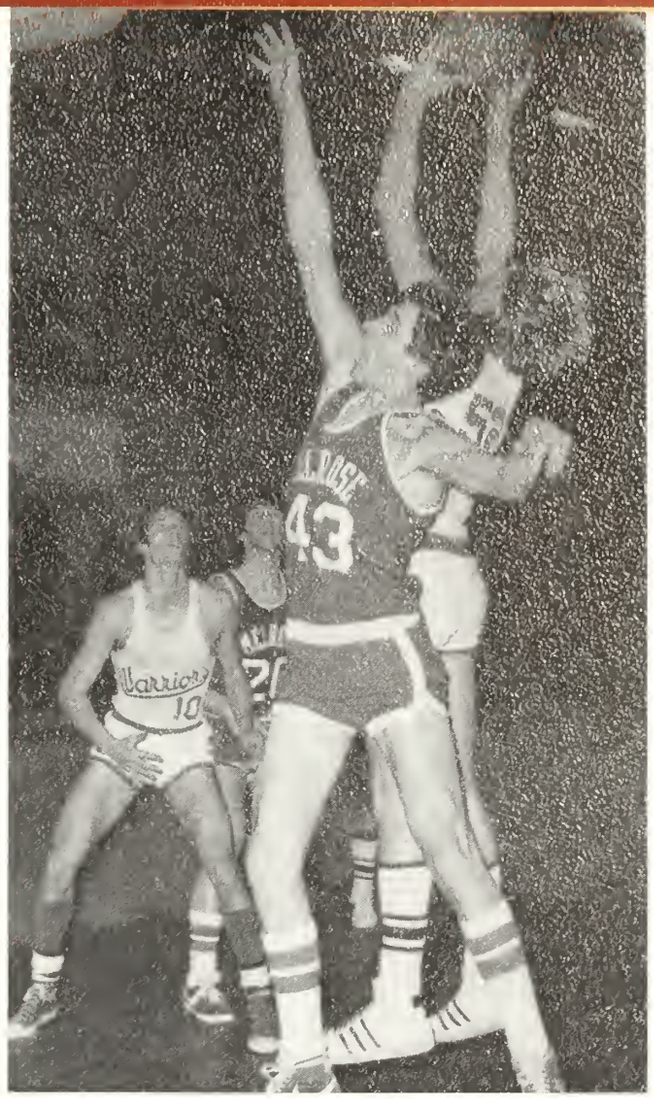
With captain Ray Puntoni leading the scoring, A. J. Willwerth on the boards, and Steve Matteucci the master of the two-handed dunk, the Melrose High Basketball team created quite a problem for many Middlesex League teams. In the season's most exciting game, the Raiders fought a powerful Winchester team down to the wire, losing only in the last five seconds of overtime. The Melrose Hoopmen surprised many other clubs in the same way, never slowing down.

Below: Hoopsters getting psyched in a pre-game huddle.

Captain Puntoni threads the needle for two points.



Dave Whitehorn goes up for an offensive rebound.

Coaches Scibelli and Granam look on as their boys defeat Stoneham, 71-60.

The depth of the club, as shown by seniors, Billy Alexander, Dave Feeley, and Dave Whitehorn, is a big reason for the 45-41 victory over Belmont and the 65-58 win over Woburn. Coach Scibelli's team, with a good season this year, seems to be headed for a hopeful future.

A World

Got out of school, went to Malden to get ready for the night.
Came home, washed up—ate a little bite.
Gonna dress in a way that will make me feel right.
I don't care how I'll look, I'll be high as a kite.

Put my fangs in, combed my face,
Tied on my cape, left for the place.
When I arrived, couldn't believe my eyes.
I was in a world of total disguise.

Met a gorilla lookin' good in a tux,
A pig with a squirt gun, a diapered duck,
The Wizard of Oz, the rock group KISS,
With costumes like these, how could we miss?
Lucifer came with an angel from heaven.
What a crazy night in Melrose, Halloween 77.

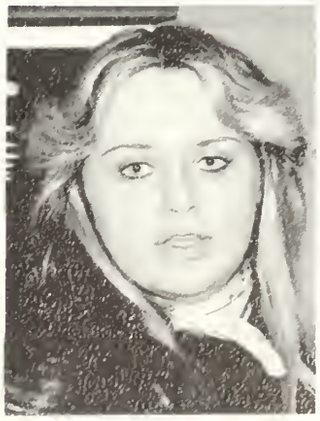
Fad (fad), n. A custom, etc., followed for a time with ex-aggerated zeal; a craze.

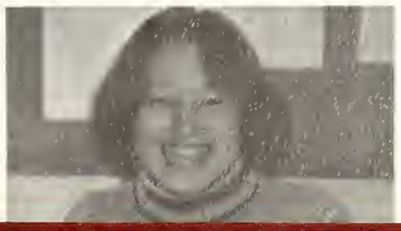
Skins

Expressions of individuality arose with the fads of our high school years. The hair was layered or shaved; coats were down, leather, dungaree, short, long; clothes were layered, also. Eye glasses, too, captured personalities. A Polo team appeared in La Coste shirts, prepies in Fair Isle sweaters, Disco babies and Western wonders in boots. Almost anything came and went: shades of the forties, the fifties, the new looks a cowl neck sweater. All to show that we each have our own special preference on how to express our individuality.

HAIR

Remember when you were about seven or eight years old and your father would "style" your hair; how he'd just get out the barber's clippers and give you a wiffle? Well, among some of the members of our class, the wiffle made a spectacular, if some what short-lived, come back. At its peak, the wiffle craze caused the corridors of MHS to be filled with sandpapered scalps. This complete turn around from former hairstyles baffled teachers and made people wonder what these kids were up to now... What were they up to?





...and how I loved them all.

All my life,
though some have changed.
Some forever,
not for better,
Some have gone
and some have remained.

All these places had their moments
With lovers and friends, I still can recall.

I know I'll often stop and think about my life

And how I loved them all.

Still Crazy

Above: My bubblegum doesn't lose its flavor on the bedpost overnight.

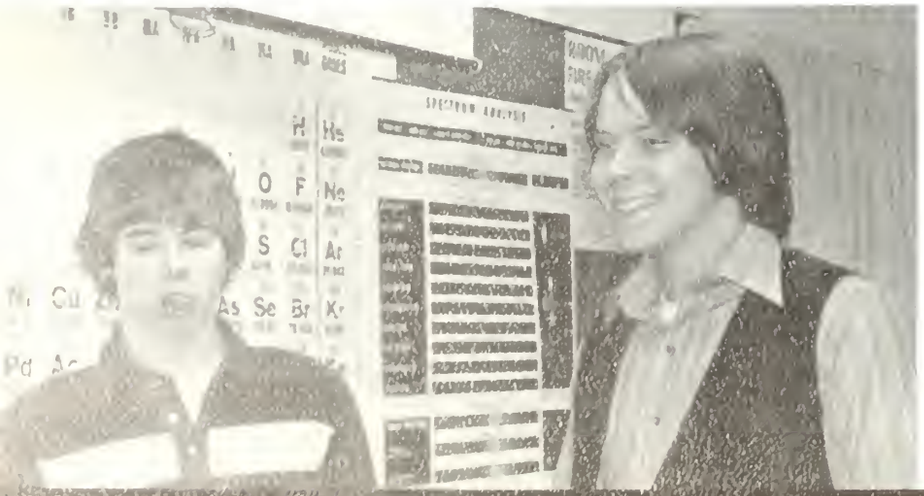
Above: Could I interest you in a tattoo?

Below: Look Ma, no cavities.

Below: Now, for some atmosphere . . .

Below: Hey Sailer, want to get lucky?

Below: Watch carefully as this boy consumes every element known to man!



Above: You don't step on Superman's cape, you don't spit into the wind, you don't pull the mask off the Old Lone Ranger, and you don't mess around with Frizz!

Above: HOW! Below: And more atmosphere.

Below: Let me in!

Above: And here's Clau-dy!

Below: Eric dear, Mr. Croston wants to see you.

Below: And your mission, if you choose to accept it . . .

And now it is over. We have come together from totally different backgrounds and we will leave for totally different destinations. For the short time we have been together we have become a group, sharing parts of ourselves and being proud of our differences.

For that reason, we all look at this end differently. For some, it is a new beginning, for others, it will never be the same. But we have all gained one thing from this experience. We will leave here as individuals. Maybe, that's what it is all about.

When the snow melts, these places will once more be filled with familiar faces. Through hot summer nights and crisp autumn evenings, friends with the same interests have gotten together to play a game of tennis, overlook the view of Ell Pond, or talk over cokes and sundaes. Each place carries the mark of the different people who went there. As time goes on, the faces change but the memories of those starry spring nights and good times will remain. However, what is more important, is that these different people are seeking a new awareness of themselves in Different Directions.
